

My name is Manpreet Kaur and my company has animated for tab panels which make the website eco-friendly. So m website is about the beauty product which I going to show in the next slide

So it is beauty product site with different types of beauty product which are liked by the women

So let get started

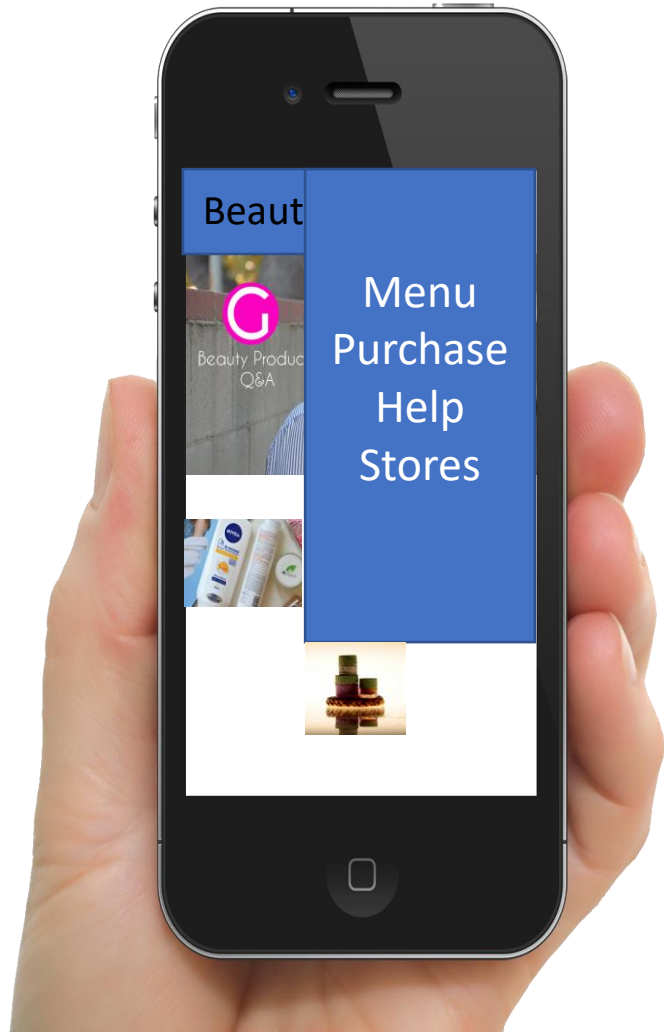

While going to the main page the user will see some people who is branding the brand and below that they have beauty product which they have.

When user hover on the product it give information about that product and hovering on the images give big photo so that user can see what is there in the image or what they are having

As you can see that while hovering on the images they give information that which brand is the product is purchasing

As you can see that while clicking on the bar right they give a navigation bar where you can go to any section of the site
